

Petrina Robinson is a 17 year old girl from St. Catherine, Jamaica. She lived for 10 years with her father, Everton Robinson. When she turned 11 years old, they moved to America in hopes for a better education for her and better opportunities for him. Petrina currently attends Classical Magnet School and is a part time student at Capital Community College. "When asked what I wanted be when I grew up, I always said a business woman. At 9 years old, I was the only business woman at my school career fair." In her spare time, Petrina works on different business ideas she has in hopes of perfecting them during her college years. She is also a singer and writer, often writing poetry and singing in her school choir. "“If you get, give,” a quote by Maya Angelou, is something that lives in everything I do. I believe that together we are stronger and that everyone deserves the help they need to succeed. I want to be apart of the solution to the problem. For this reason I am working towards becoming a social entrepreneur.” In her life she hopes to make an impact on issues such as food waste, homelessness, and youth education. Now in her senior year of high school, she has decided to study at Quinnipiac School of Business to become a social entrepreneur and a person who starts a business to solve social problems.
